HARMILL COMPANY AT MONTEZUMA IS BUSY

The station on the 200-foot level of the Harmill at Montezuma has been cut, according to Gerald H. Harmill, president and general manager, and an east drift has been started to block out the extension of ore developed on the levels above.

The ore of the Harmill is lead-silver and it averages in value $110. This material will "sweeten" a large tonnage of 740 ore blocked out in the old workings of the mine. The east drift, in addition to blocking out ore, also will cut the junction of the dry silver vein which produced $75,000 to a depth of 80 feet. A drift will be driven west to cut a strong vein which has been prospecting on the surface for 1500 feet by means of trenches. This vein shows promise of developing a large tonnage of ore.

HOPE IS HELD OUT THAT MEN STILL SURVIVE

Can Live Without Food Until
Rescue Party Reaches Them
If Such Is Fact

AIR IS TRICKLING INTO MINE
Friends Entertain Little Hope
That Any of Miners Will
Be Found Alive

JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 2.—If the forty-seven miners in the Argonaut mine are still alive, they can survive without food until the rescue party burrowing in the depths of the Kennedy mine releases them, and they can be saved. Hibernians this morning said that it would still be a matter of some days, however, before the relief crew which have been feverishly digging every minute of the night and day since last Thursday morning are able to break through into the Argonaut. Those in charge of the rescue operations are reported to believe it may be four or five days before the miners are freed. Obviously that fresh air is trickling through into the Kennedy from the lower levels of the Argonaut brought new hope to Jackson yesterday.

Little hope of rescue is held now among friends and relatives of the trapped miners. While attempts to rescue the Argonaut mine are being made, the attention of Amador county people is being turned to efforts to alleviate the suffering of the families of the entombed men. Secretary Loyal of the conference in charge of operations, when asked for an explanation of the slow progress in attempts to reopen the old passageway from the Kennedy into the Argonaut, said: "The men are encountering lots of fallen timber in the mine. These must all be dug out. The heavy timbering will follow the line which closed the mine two years ago. After removing these and clearing out the drift now here, there may be put in to prevent the fresh caving in. All of this takes time." Army airplanes are being used to convey export respiration between San Francisco and the mine.
